Hi all,

I guess it is entirely a zoom event now . . .not surprising given accelerating rates of Covid spread.

I'm available from 10-12:30 and 2:30-4:30 today for a call. Friday morning as well, and then Monday from 3:30-5.

See changes in red below to correct a date, add a topic, and correct a poor articulation of the energy sector topic.

Colleagues,

You've recently received an email from Kevin Perry asking for MECC speaker powerpoint slides. Note that ours has been billed as a NO POWERPOINT session. So you can ignore that request.

Still, we need to discuss the topics we want to cover. Some of my thoughts are:

- Reversing the reversal. What will that look like? Procedural challenges
- What to expect between now and January 20, 2021?
- What to look for in environmental enforcement in a Biden administration. How will it differ from the Obama administration?
- Predictions on climate change initiatives, WOTUS, environmental regulations in the energy industries (oil, gas, utilities, renewables), environmental justice, guidance in general.
- Let's not forget the states: Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska. Predictions for those states and for federal-state relations.

Those are some thoughts. You will have some of your own. Can we set a time for a conference call to discuss? Do folks have availability between now and December 1? Let me know. If we can't find a time to all get together, give me some time slots and I will call you individually.

Q: Will you be able to participate in person?

Thanks, and prompt responses appreciated.

Regards,

Jim

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Follow-Up -- RE: MECC 2020 -- December 1-2 (Kansas City, Missouri Convention Center) (MECC) :: "Election Review and What it Means for Compliance and Enforcement" :: Panel Discussion on Day One

Importance: High

Morning:

Jim Price: As moderator will you please reach out to this august group for our MECC panel on "Election Results and What it Means for Compliance and Enforcement"?

I see this as a NO PPT session. If the group feels differently we can certainly adjust – but I see it as an important 40 minute conversation of key issues moderated by Jim Price.

raw

1. This session will be December 1 at 8 a.m. – 8:40 a.m.
2. We have everyone attending IN-PERSON (with a caveat, of course)*
3. I assume we will know who our President is by December 1st. If not, we will have to reconfigure the topic!
4. Safety Protocols (for In-Person)
 - a. Limited to 100 in person (well back from stage and safely distanced in Ball Room that seats 500)
 - b. Stage will be larger with chairs spaced safely
 - c. Individual microphones that are cleaned in between sessions
 - d. Green rooms for speakers in separate area with a monitor and staff to direct speakers to the stage
 - e. Five minute break in between each session to ensure smooth and safe transition of speakers from green room to stage or stage to exit from convention center (if speakers want to stay in the meeting room that is their decision)
 - f. No established breaks
 - g. Box Lunch
 - h. No breakout sessions (except for the state agency breakouts which are pre-recorded)

- i. No Reception
- j. Caveat: COVID could go south; convention centers can close; etc., in which case the entire event will become a zoom-style "Hollywood Squares" episode. UGH!

All the best! Let me know if you have questions!

Quick follow-up.

I created a new topic without much input from you all. Let me know if this is a panel you want to participate on and if you have any edits to the write up. Day One starts with this session. .

Have a great weekend.

8:00 a.m. – 8:40 a.m.

Election Results and what they mean for Environmental Policy, Compliance and Enforcement

By the time MECC starts, either USEPA will be looking to "finish the job" and set new priorities -- or we will be looking (once again) at a major overhaul of environmental regulations, policy, and guidance. If we have a change in control of the US Senate, a new governor in Missouri, or a new SCOTUS line-up, your world may be in for some significant upheaval.

Good Afternoon:

I want to create a new topic for the re-scheduled “Midwest Environmental Compliance Conference” (MECC-2020) :: “Election Results and What it Means for Compliance and Enforcement”

It’s a tricky topic since we do not know who the new president (or a few governors) (or the Senate) will be. Either way, it’s a good topic because either EPA will either have a new set of priorities and also be looking to “finish the job” -- or we will be looking (once again) at a major overhaul of environmental regulations, policy and guidance. If we have a new Senate, that throws a huge wrinkle into the mix as does a new Supreme Court lineup. You get the point.

Question # 1: Will you join us on December 1st (approx. 9 a.m.) for this session as part of our revised “Midwest Environmental Compliance Conference?”

Question #2: Harder question. Will you join us in person?

[NOTE: I know it’s a lot to ask to join in person and you may have rules on travel right now, but the MECC will be a safe distance, limited IN-PERSON event (limited to 125) and the rest (350 +) will join via LIVE-STREAM. It’s important that we have as many speakers as possible join in person on stage (safely distanced) so that we can do something more than a “Hollywood Squares” style call. We have the entire conference room designed for 500 attendees and an extra large stage to accommodate. We will clean the stage regularly, set up individual “green rooms” for speakers and take other appropriate measures. We will also make it easy and safe for you to enter and exit without fanfare.]

IF you CANNOT join in person, we can add you via zoom, but we can’t do that for every speaker -- since that would quite ruin the ambience of trying to create a live on-stage appearance.

All the best. Let me know as soon as you can please.

Update on MECC 2020

1. MECC 2020 will be December 1-2 at the K.C. Convention Center!

Day One (Tuesday, December 1) - traditional MECC panels and updates.

Day Two (Wednesday, December 2) - “Boot Camp” formula for more practice-oriented sessions.

2. Special NOTE.

A. There will be NO BREAKOUT sessions. Fewer sessions and fewer speakers. No open access exhibit hall; no reception; no established breaks.

B. Some speakers can join by ZOOM but we are looking for the majority of speakers to join in person.

I welcome your input! Stay safe in the very weird times.
